UPS uninterruptible power supply battery pack has a strong odor

Overview

A fan running at high speed continuously usually indicates an abnormal internal temperature or current for error code portable ups power supply, while a burning smell often means that the circuitry or battery pack has begun to experience thermal damage or a chemical reaction—situations with which have been documented in actual use. Does ups smell good?

I've used UPSs in my home before, including APC, but have never experienced this. I'm very concerned about what this smell could be. It does not smell like something that is particularly healthy to be inhaling on a long-term basis.

Why does my ups smell so bad?

The smell is more like the plastic smell that new appliances have to them just stronger. So, there's a number of things that can stink for quite a while inside the UPS until they can burn off. You have insulating varnish on the transformer, and the transformer in a UPS is really big. You have room temperature curing RTV.

Does a new back-ups 1500 smell bad?

I purchased a new Back-UPS 1500 to supplement my 6-year-old one, for which I purchased a new battery at the same time. Unfortunately the new unit has a very strong smell. I thought it would perhaps burn off and have had the unit on for about ten days now, but the smell is as strong as ever.

What makes a UPS uninterruptible?

Of the three main subsystems, the battery is what makes the system “uninterruptible”. Depending upon the system design, the battery can constitute as much as 50% of the cost of the UPS. Without a reliable battery, the operation of the entire data center can be put at risk.
